

FAUNA

Fauna is all of the animal life present in a particular region or time. The corresponding term for plants is flora, and for fungi, it is funga. Flora, fauna, funga and other forms of life are collectively referred to as biota.

The term fauna represents all the animal species found in a particular region at a particular time. These are the naturally occurring animal species of the particular area.

As we all know nature comprises of flora, fauna and us. We all are inter dependent and food chain helps us keep the balance in nature. Hence fauna plays a vital role in nature and we have both domestic and wild animals that contribute to the rich heritage of a country or place. It helps in tourism, helps in various manufacturing products, medicines, perfumes, food, etc. Some animals are also considered sacred and each religion gives importance to its own animal.

They have become an integral part of us.

In this display various philatelic materials on fauna are used like stamps, post card, miniature sheet and First Day Cover. One can find some of the fauna very typical to their native region like the Bengal Tiger. They also contribute to the Heritage of a country and the place.

BY: M. GURUPATH KAMATH

